

The Family Mediation Council seeks to appoint members to its Family Mediation Standards Board

The FMC is dedicated to working to promote best practice in family mediation and to ensuring the public can confidently access family mediation services offering exacting professional and training standards, which were introduced in 2014. A copy of the approved standards framework can be found at http://www.familymediationcouncil.org.uk/wpcontent/uploads/2014/09/fmc_standards_framework_manual.pdf.

In 2015, the FMC established a committee responsible for implementing these standards: the Family Mediation Standards Board (FMSB)

The FMSB has made considerable progress in its first year, introducing a register of family mediators, approving foundation training courses, and addressing problems with the accreditation system. The challenges which lie ahead include making the register more accessible to the public, conducting a successful process of re-registration, reviewing the standards framework, introducing a register for Professional Practice Consultants and implementing the FMC's standards on child inclusive mediation.

The FMC is now seeking to appoint two independent members and one family mediator member to sit on the FMSB. Members will be at the forefront of the implementation of the new standards and self-regulatory framework of the FMC.

Members may not simultaneously serve on the FMC, chair an FMC member organisation, or have a role within another organisation that is likely to result in a conflict of interest with their role with the FMSB.

These roles are not remunerated although reasonable travel expenses to meetings on FMC related business will be reimbursed. It is anticipated that they will involve a time commitment of 2 days per month. Subject to an initial review after three months, it is anticipated that the appointment will be for a period of four years.

Role & Responsibilities

The FMSB is responsible strategically to the FMC for the operation of the professional standards and self-regulatory framework for family mediation in England and Wales. This is a non-statutory professional framework that mediators are nevertheless required to comply with if they wish to undertake publicly funded work or sign official documentation relating to mediation information and assessment meetings (MIAMs), and that FMC member organisations will require their mediator members to come within.

The primary functions of the FMSB are to do the following, in accordance with the professional standards and self-regulation framework:

- Maintain the professional standards for family mediation.
- Consider initial training courses for approval, consider any appeals relating to courses that are not approved, and monitor the ongoing quality of courses.
- Oversee the accreditation process that leads to qualified (FMCA) status, including: making decisions on the accreditation of individual mediators, including reaccreditation and suspension or removal of accreditation; appointing, training and deselecting assessors; ensuring a common standard of assessment; considering appeals against decisions to refuse or remove accreditation; and maintaining a register of accredited mediators and those registered as working towards accreditation.
- Ensure that the Law Society Family Mediation Panel accreditation scheme operates comparable standards to the FMC scheme.
- Maintain a register of Professional Practice Consultants who have completed training, including operating the registration, re-registration and deselection procedures.
- Consider and make decisions on complaints and disciplinary matters that have been escalated from FMC member organisations, and where necessary investigate potential shortcomings in member organisations' procedures.
- Monitor any other member organisation functions that have a direct bearing on the quality of the professional standards and self-regulation framework.
- Maintain management information to enable the Board to carry out its responsibilities effectively and to provide statistics relating to the professional standards and self-regulation framework.
- Review the effectiveness and cost-effectiveness of the Board's operations.

The Board will be supported in these functions by the FMC & FMSB's Executive Officer and staff or service providers.

FMSB board members will:

- Assist the board in upholding high standards of integrity and probity;
- Assist the board in the development of standards for mediation that are robust and defensible;
- Scrutinise the performance of the board in meeting agreed goals and objectives and monitor the reporting of performance;
- Monitor progress towards the timely and effective achievement and implementation of the objectives, policies and strategies set out by the board ensuring that appropriate decisions are taken promptly;
- Work to ensure best practice in relation to the principles of corporate governance;
- Help the board to promote the development of high-quality information for circulation in advance of meetings and at those meetings to support the full exploration of agenda items in a timely manner
- Devote time to developing and refreshing relevant knowledge and skills.

In addition board members will be expected to:

- Be actively involved in the work of the board both inside and outside the board meetings.
- Serve on and chair a subcommittee when requested to do so by the Chair of the FMSB.
- Attend regular board meetings (c. 6 per year) as well as attendance at/participation in subcommittee meetings. Attendance may be required in person or by email/telephone conference.
- Volunteer for and willingly take on specific board roles and assignments as requested by the Chair and complete board related tasks thoroughly, conscientiously and within the timescales laid down by the Chair and/or board.
- Ensure they are properly informed on all matters concerning the board and any subcommittees, preparing themselves well for meetings, and reviews and commenting in a constructive and timely manner on minutes and reports.
- Establish an effective and collegial working relationship with other committee members which contributes to board consensus.
- Participate actively in the board's annual evaluation process and any board planning and strategy events.

To apply you should have:

- Excellent communication skills
- The diplomacy, tact and enthusiasm required to work constructively with other board members
- Excellent writing skills with the ability to draft clear, concise briefs, reports and other documents on complex issues;
- A good record of attendance at and contribution to board-level or similar meetings.
- An interest in, good understanding of, and relevant experience of professional standards, governance and self-regulation;
- A proven record of working within a budget and in a timely manner in high profile operational roles;
- Experience of working in small groups in an independent manner;
- Experience of successful facilitation of strategic proposals and decision making;
- An ability to challenge other board members in a constructive and facilitative way. Board members will be selected to ensure a balance of strengths, backgrounds and areas of experience.

Applicants for the lay member positions will ideally have experience of regulation or working with professional, academic or service standards.

Applications for the family mediator member position should have experience as a family mediator.
