

Family Mediation Cymru is hosting an online workshop exploring how we have adapted our Child Inclusive Mediation (CIM) process using the Lundy Model of Participation.

This practical and reflective session will provide a clear, step-by-step guide to integrating the Lundy Model framework into your own CIM practice. The course is designed to equip participants with the knowledge, practical tools and confidence to develop and strengthen their CIM processes, ensuring children experience meaningful and rights-based participation.

Participants will receive access to Family Mediation Cymru's CIM documentation for adaptation within their own practice. This includes:

- Child-friendly leaflets and letters
- Consent forms
- Feedback and evaluation tools

What You Will Learn

- The four elements of the Lundy Model (Space, Voice, Audience and Influence) and how they align with Child Inclusive Mediation
- Practical strategies for embedding the Lundy Model within your CIM process
- Tools to support children in expressing their views safely and effectively
- Reflections on effectiveness, impact and evaluation
- Building confidence to overcome the common barriers to CIM

CPD

4 CPD hours

Who Is This Course For?

This workshop is aimed at CIM-trained mediators who wish to deepen their practice and further develop their child-inclusive approach

Delivery Format

This interactive online workshop will include:

- Presentations
- Case studies
- Group discussions
- Reflective exercises

This is an engaging and participatory session — cameras on, please.

Date and Time

Tuesday 8th September or Monday 7th December
9:30am – 2:00pm (including lunch break)

Cost

Price of £60 per person

Trainers

Cheryl Edwards and Sarah Briley will share their experience of developing, implementing and evaluating the Lundy-informed CIM model, which has been in practice at Family Mediation Cymru for the past 18 months.

Cheryl has written an article on this pilot, which will be published shortly in the College of Mediators Journal.

To Book

Contact: accounts@familymediationcymru.co.uk or telephone 02920 229692